

Mary L. Ross Is Named Manager Of Intramurals

Mary Louise Ross has been chosen manager and co-ordinator of women's intramural activities on the UTMB campus for this year.

Duties of this office include planning activity schedules, informing team captains and team members of coming events, and posting intramural announcements. Other responsibilities of the manager are checking athletic equipment and keeping records of individual and team scores.

Mary Louise is a junior from Brownsville and is majoring in physical education. She was captain of the women's black team last year.

The women's intramural captains for the 1961-62 school year have been selected.

They are: Vanda Poole, Black team; Juanita Hensley, White team; Sharon Crabtree, Red team; Sarah Smith, Yellow team; Martha Cloar, Brown team; McGlade Ladd, Green team; Cile Bramham, Blue team and Dianne Guntter, Orange team.

Every woman on campus has been assigned to one of these eight intramural teams. The captain of each team will contact each member soon about the upcoming table tennis tournament.

With the beginning of intramurals many freshmen as well as upperclassmen are perhaps wondering how points are acquired in the competition among teams and individuals.

For team sports—basketball, free throw, volleyball, and softball—each individual who participates in a winning game will receive two points. Each individual who participates in a losing game will receive one point.

In the individual sports—ping pong, tennis, badminton, horseshoes, shuffleboard, handball, and checkers—each contest won by a team member gives that individual two points. For each contest lost, he receives one point, and if he should win the championship, he receives three points. A forfeiture of a match loses all points scored in that tournament.

Points are also given for work in carnicus, cross country, track, and swimming and diving.

The winner and runner-up of each of the individual sports receives properly engraved medals. Medals are also given to the high scorers in the following team sports: basketball, free throw, and softball.

The man and woman having the highest total for a two-year period will be awarded a trophy so inscribed and engraved with his or her name. The team with the highest number of points at the end of the school year will be declared Intramural Champion.

Nine Chosen For Girls Ensemble

Nine girls have been selected by Miss Harriet Fulton, UTMB chorus director, to make up the Girls Ensemble.

Peggy Smith, Sammie Williams and Evelyn Gibbs are the first sopranos. The altos are Joan Haynes, Linda Dunlap and Patsy Stockdale. These girls are working on a program of light Christmas music which they will present to various clubs and organizations on campus.

There are seventy-five members of the regular chorus who, also under Miss Fulton's direction, have begun rehearsing for Handel's Messiah, which will be presented on December 10.

Try-outs are now being held for a male quartet. All those interested in singing with this group are being asked to contact Miss Fulton as soon as possible.

Merrill To Speak At SNEA Banquet

Dr. E. C. Merrill, dean of the College of Education at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, will be the guest speaker for the Student National Education Association banquet November 8.

The banquet is planned for 6 p.m. at the Biltmore Hotel in Union City. Other guests will include Dean Paul Meek, Dr. Glenn S. Gallien, professor of education, and members of SNEA and their guests.

SNEA President Bob Hurt will preside over the occasion. Dancing will follow the evening meal.

Tickets may be secured from the office of the Department of Education.

Class Is Making Marriage Survey On UTMB Campus

A study is now being undertaken by the Home Economics 311 class of Family Relations to determine the effects of marriage on college careers.

The class, under the supervision of Miss Barbara Norman, instructor, has compiled a questionnaire which is being distributed among married students on the UTMB campus. Included in the survey are questions concerning finances, time schedules, distribution of duties, and children.

Such questions are being asked as: What effect has marriage had on your grades? How have you managed finances? Have your parents helped? Is budgeting time a problem? How have you worked this out? How much would unplanned children affect your present plans? Knowing what you know now, would you change your wedding plans?

A composite of the answers will be made, without mention of names, and results will be announced.

Officials Accept E-Science Bldg.

The new Engineering-Science Building underwent the final inspection Oct. 20 and was accepted on behalf of the University of Tennessee by John T. Neely, director of the physical plant and Dean Paul Meek, head of U-T Martin.

Also present at the final inspection were Dan T. McGown of Memphis, architect; John Moore of Memphis, general contractor; Will King Dickerson, director of physical plant at U-T Martin and Earl Knepp, resident engineer at U-T Martin.

The building is now in the process of being outfitted and equipped. It is expected to be ready for use sometime in November.

UTMB Folk Singer Has Made Second Platter

Miss Aaltje Van Denburg, associate professor of related art and crafts, at The University of Tennessee at Martin, has recorded a new long-playing album called "Folk Songs for Children—Young and Old."

Miss Van Denburg sings such favorites as "Billy Boy" and "Froggie Went A-Courtin'," accompanying herself on the autoharp.

"Somebody's Tall and Handsome," Miss Van Denburg's first long-playing album, assured her of success as a talented folk singer. She is much in demand both on campus and off campus to present favorite folksongs to clubs and organizations.

The album will be on sale soon at the UTMB Bookstore and at the P. & S. Drugstore in downtown Martin.

ROTC Elects Six Co-ed Sponsors

Six ROTC sponsors have been elected by the Military Department to serve during the 1961-62 school year. The six coeds are Laraine Fields (3rd year), Linda Cox

(2nd year), Linda McKelvey (2nd year), Linda Long (1st year), Sandra Westbrook (1st year), and Carol Melton (1st year). The sponsors will drill each week with the cadet Battle Group. They will be honored at the Military Ball during the winter quarter and will participate in a federal inspection next spring. One of the six will be voted ROTC Queen at the Military Ball January 26.

Laraine Fields was crowned Homecoming Queen by Dean Paul Meek at the halftime of the UTMB-Livingston State football game.

Laraine was the first queen to be selected by the student body. Candidates were nominated by the football squad.

Charles Grooms and Camille Sammons were elected king and queen, respectively, of barnwarming.

"Respectively" implies that there was a little switcheroo in crowns.

Science Academy And Institute To Hold Meets Here

Judging Contest Scheduled Oct. 28

The second annual Intracollegiate Livestock Judging Contest, sponsored by Martin merchants, will be held on the U-T Martin farm Saturday, Oct. 28.

This year's event will feature quarter horses, beef cattle, sheep, and swine, according to Dr. Paul Starks, instructor in animal husbandry. The quarter horses will be furnished partly by the Spinks Clay Co. of Paris, and other animals to be judged will be furnished by prominent breeders of the Martin area.

The contest, which is open to agriculture students only, will be followed that evening by an awards banquet. There are approximately twenty-five awards, furnished mostly by the businessmen of Martin, to be given.

Directory To Be Published Soon

A student-faculty directory has been compiled by the Public Relations Office and the Dean's Office in co-operation with the Office of the Registrar, according to public relations officer Wayne Tansil.

"An effort has been made to include the names, coded classifications, Martin addresses and telephone numbers, and the hometown addresses of students. Faculty members' local addresses and telephone numbers will be given," Mr. Tansil said.

College Children Make With Halloween Stuff

TRICK OR TREAT! Halloween in this country has come to mean a time for pranks by children.

For many "adult" children also Halloween is a time for pranks. Martin has its share of these "adult kids." They leave their tracks on the campus and uptown every year.

City and college officials are always apprehensive about what may happen on Trick or Treat night.

Many of the officials felt that these "adult" children carried their fun too far last year. They said, "Window soaping was harmless, but egg throwing was extremely messy."

One person said, "The boys carried their fun so far it became dangerous. Throwing fire crackers and eggs into passing automobiles could be disastrous."

Another official said, "We want the boys to have fun, but we don't want them destroying property. Last year through their fun they damaged some city property and unnecessarily inconvenienced a number of people."

He also said, "Boys weren't by themselves throwing eggs. The girls threw some too."

UNION CITIAN TO LEAD TOUR GROUP

A Brownell College Tour of Europe will be conducted the summer of 1962 by Mrs. Catherine Cox of Union City.

Plans for the tour group include visits to England, Holland, Switzerland, Austria, Italy, Monaco, France, and Luxembourg, Germany.

Mrs. Cox will accompany the group throughout Europe, and special guides in each city will show places of interest.

Students of U-T Martin will have the opportunity to attend two science meetings on the campus November 4 and November 24-25.

Some 100 teachers in the fields of science and mathematics will assemble here for the first meeting of the Tennessee Short Term Area Institute on the U-T Martin campus Nov. 4. Prof. Henry C. Allison has announced.

The main speaker for the

UTMB Self-Study To Be Completed Spring Quarter

The University of Tennessee Martin Branch Self-Study will be completed and its report made ready for the visiting committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools by March, 1962, according to Prof. H. B. Smith, chairman.

The Southern Association visiting committee will be on campus during the latter part of April, he said.

The time table as set up by the UTMB steering committee calls for the completion of departmental studies by December 15. All reports by campus-wide committees and those by departmental faculty members will be turned over to an editing committee, Prof. Smith continued.

During the winter quarter this committee will prepare the final report, which will be placed in the hands of the visiting committee one month before its visit to the campus, Prof. Smith concluded.

day will be Dr. Orville Harfield Jr. of the U-T Knoxville campus. His topic will be "Frontiers in Mathematics in the Secondary School." Following his discussion, those present will divide into sectional groups including biological sciences, physical sciences, and mathematics. The faculty and students are invited to attend these programs, which are expected to last until 4 o'clock.

The second and third meetings of the Institute will be held on Nov. 18 and Dec. 2 respectively. Several members of the UTMB staff will appear on the programs for one of these meeting dates.

UTMB will also serve as host to the 71st annual meeting of the Tennessee Academy of Science Nov. 24-25.

The program will include a number of sectional meetings at which scholarly papers will be presented in various fields of science. A banquet will be held Friday evening.

It is expected that the Academy meeting will be held in the new Engineering-Science Building. UTMB students may attend.

A total of 250 people is expected to attend this annual event. This is the first time this event has been held on the UTMB campus.

U-T Pays Honor To Ira N. Chiles

Creation of a Professor Ira N. Chiles Endowment Fund has been announced at The University of Tennessee, at Knoxville.

A group of Prof. Chiles's colleagues felt that the setting up of an Ira N. Chiles Library Endowment would be the most fitting method of honoring him.

Prof. Chiles retired September 1, 1961, at the age of 70. He taught at UTMB for three summers. Mr. Chiles is the chairman of the Martin Branch committee, liaison body between UTMB and the parent institution at Knoxville.

A dinner was given in his honor yesterday, in Knoxville.

Professor Earl Knepp receives a plaque for meritorious service from Harold Life, newly-elected president of the U-T Martin Alumni Association. The award was given at the alumni homecoming luncheon.

INTRAMURALS BRING OUT BEST

Intramurals are about to begin again. For the remainder of this college year this program will be a source of fun and accomplishment for those who participate in the various activities.

This athletic program is one of the biggest endeavors on our campus because it involves all students.

Intramurals, through game situations, generate a spirit of healthy competition, not only among students, but within the individual in his effort to achieve his best.

SEND VOLETTE HOME

What do you do with your copies of The Volette after you finish reading them?

Our campus newspaper serves, among other purposes, as a record of our activities here at UTMB. It is partial evidence of what college students of today are thinking and doing.

Our parents and friends back home are interested in our thoughts and activities. We heartily concur in the thought expressed by one college official on a distant campus recently, that it would be a fine thing if students mailed their college newspapers home to their parents.

HALLOWEEN IS FOR CHILDREN

In this issue of The Volette is an interview story dealing with the Halloween problem. The reporter brings out the point that on Halloween little children are expected to pull pranks and cut capers. What people really dread are the "adult children," who seem unable to determine the difference between a prank and destructive play.

A person of college age and intelligence should have learned to judge the value of activities. It is hoped that we students of UTMB will keep our eyes open this Halloween to help guard the public from the few "adult children" we have on our campus.

As one citizen suggested to our reporter in an interview, it would be a fine thing if UTMB sororities and fraternities and other organizations would encourage a decent and sane Halloween celebration—one that would be observed mostly indoors.

HOW TO STUDY

Good study habits are essential to successful college work. Whether or not a student has learned to study in high school, there are many adjustments to be made when he transfers to college, and these adjustments can be successfully made only if he develops good study habits.

Perhaps the first obstacle to studying in college is the inability to concentrate amid added distractions. Of course study is an individual matter. Studying in groups may have its advantages on occasion, but it generally leads to greater distraction. Probably, at first, concentration will require conscious effort and force on the part of the individual, but, once acquired, this ability can hardly be lost.

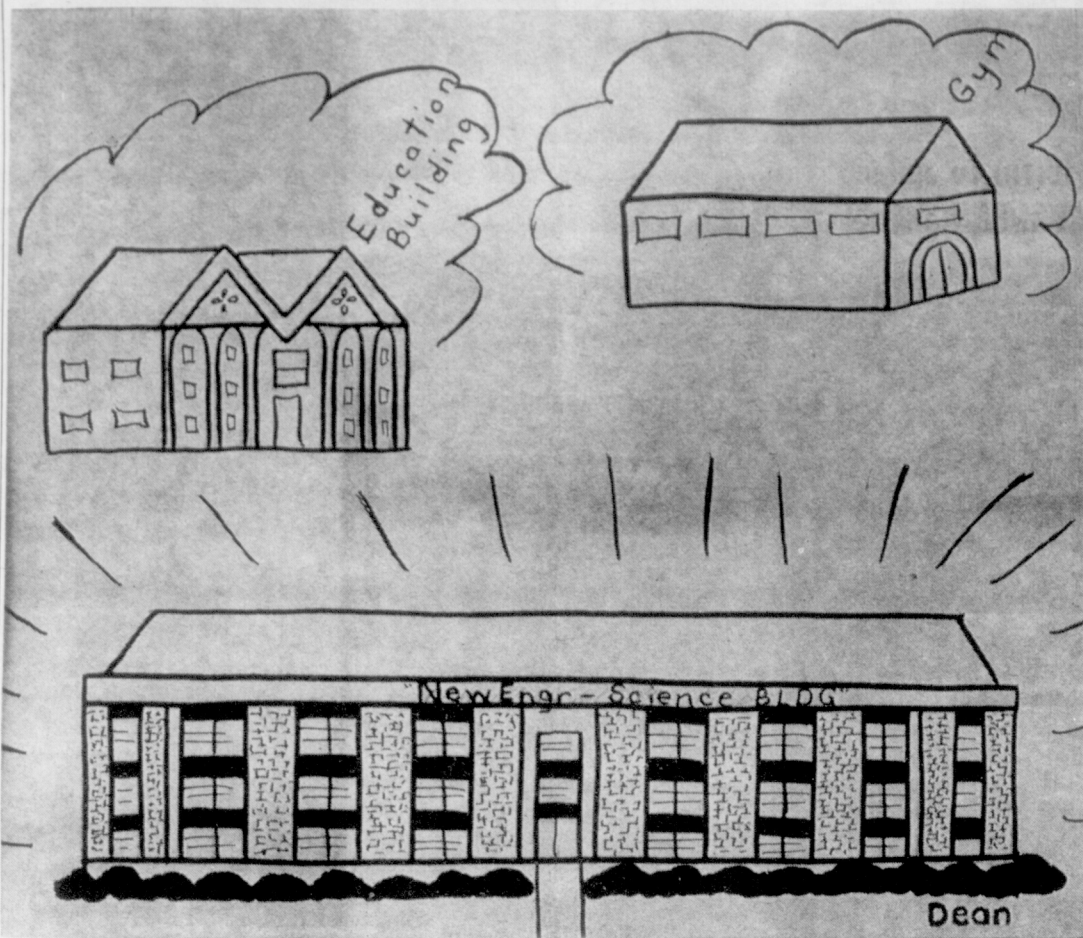

Knowledge cannot be gained in a passive manner. The student who merely sits through class, not having prepared beforehand and not contributing to classroom activities cannot profit from a discussion. An instructor's assistance can be of value only when the student is awake and alert. Sometimes taking notes, if it serves no better purpose, employs the senses and prevents drowsiness or a negative attitude.

A systematic study schedule is of great importance to the most effective absorption of study materials. Experiments have proven that students who study specific subjects at the same time and, when possible, in the same place each day do better work than most students who do not have a system. Most students, in order to do a good job, need to spend twice as much time in preparation out of class as they spend in class.

A schedule, however, should allow ample time for both study and recreation. Rest and play are necessary to relax the body and release tension. The problem of the student is to find a balance between his rest and play periods and his study periods. We can expect to be faced with this same problem throughout life.

Assistance in making out study schedules and in solving other "How to Study" problems is always available at UTMB in the Student Personnel Office and in the Freshman Counseling Office, Administration Building.

Dreams Do Become Realities . . .

College Life Amoozin' But Quite Confoozin'

Questioned about their reactions to the first few weeks of college life, freshman men and women gave a variety of replies, expressing the view that college is great but somewhat confusing at first.

"What was your first impression of college life here on the UTMB campus?" "How do you think college differs from high school?" "How do you like college in general?" These were some of the questions put to the first-timers. Following are some of the responses:

Janice Sue Fields: "I thought I'd never make it through those lines. College is a lot bigger and an entirely different atmosphere. The school is all right, but the studying I don't like."

Barbara Messimer: "I felt I was thrown in with a mob of people I didn't know, and that I would never learn anyone. One would be treated as an adult. I love it."

Richard Ferris: "I'm surprised at the amount of individual freedom. College is the complete opposite of a military academy."

Mack Jones: "The students were very friendly. You have more free time. I like it and hope to stay here for a while."

Wanda Rust: "I came this summer, but fall is much different. Everything about it is different. It's great."

Dick Moseman: "I like the friendliness here. You're on your own, and it's up to you to do your own studying. I think UTMB is terrific."

John Rosen: "It's one of the nicest and most wonderful experiences of friendliness and school spirit anywhere. Here you don't have to do anything, but you know you'd better. I wouldn't trade it for anything."

Sue Boone: "I was scared to death. I thought you had to be a genius to stay up here after the first week of Chemistry. It's bigger than high school by far. I like it just fine."

Olivia Hollabough: "My first impression was that the people were so nice and friendly. You are so much more on your own. You have to make your own decisions. I love it, just everything about it."

James Batts: "UTMB is just great! Everything is harder but it's out of this world."

Sonny Lacher: "My first impression? I was very mixed up! There are so many more activities here than in high school. The girls are pretty, the scenery is pretty, and we have a good football team."

Harriet Zarecor: "I thought everybody was real friendly. In college you have to learn to be strictly an individual. I think it's great."

Margaret Simrell: "The thing that has impressed me most is the friendliness of the freshmen and the upperclassmen. You have to be your own boss in preparing your lessons. I love it!"

Harvey Fry: "The first thing that impressed me was the girls. The main adjustment from high school is learning to study and to benefit from your use of time. I think college is real sleepy!"

Scotty Bennett: "I'd rather be back in high school. There is too much studying and too much hurrying. But, since it's got to be, I'd as soon be here as anywhere."

Mary Llew Jones: "I felt I was surrounded by mountains. College is nothing like high school, because you are completely on your own. I love it."

Connie Apple: "Everybody seemed real nice and friendly, but I felt lost at first. It is harder than high school. I like it now that I've gotten used to it."

Malcolm Pendergrass: "There's lots of studying. There are more things to do, such as washing."

Carol Bessent: "I first thought it was a great big party, but now I know differently. The ways teachers teach are entirely different from high school, and it is also much harder. I love it."

James Byford: "All the students are close and more friendly. You have much more freedom. I like it fine."

Marita Moseman: "My first thought was Heavens — Heavens — Heavens. You seem to be learning things for your own good rather than for your teachers and parents. I really love it."

Home Ec Courses Are Reorganized For Efficiency

by SUE PATTERSON

The Home Economics Department at The University of Tennessee at Martin has reorganized its curriculum in a form of experimentation to find more effective methods of teaching in order to meet the needs of the students and also to control the cost of instruction.

Because of the technological and social changes more is expected of the homemaker than ever before. In the years past women worked at home. Homemaking was developed into a special art and the time element was not involved. Today many women are working at double careers — home responsibilities and also a full time job outside the home. Planning and the management of time, energy and all family resources are thus of utmost importance.

These changes place an emphasis on a great variety of packaged foods which take little time to prepare. The homemaker must choose wisely to provide for the nutrition and the health of her family. She must be able to meet problems in clothing effectively. She must be able to choose fabrics from mutable varieties which will be economical and suitable for her family's use and which will require little time and care. Her sewing skills will be used for creative activity rather than of necessity.

Because of these and other demands upon the present-day homemaker, the Home Economics Department has drawn up a plan whereby some of the courses are being taught with the use of experimental methods. One foods course is being taught through demonstration. In another course the girls have individual laboratory experiences in order to facilitate handling larger classes with improved instruction.

Textiles and clothing classes have been redesigned to afford students this opportunity for developing necessary basic skills in the shortest time. Child development courses have been consolidated into one course in Family Relations and one in Child Development. Home economics majors are being encouraged to take more electives.

Home economics courses offer worthwhile electives for both men and women students. Men will particularly enjoy upper division courses such as Family Economics, Mechanization of the House, Family Relations, Child Development, Related Art, Textiles, Crafts, Nutrition and Experimental Food Study — Family Food Problems.

On Feb. 22, 1909, President Theodore Roosevelt reviewed the Great White Fleet at Hampton Roads, Va., upon its return from a world cruise.

CAMPUS CHARACTER:

UTMB Grad Returns In Role Of Teacher

by ERNESTINE McCALL

How many students graduate and then return within the short space of slightly more than a year to their respective colleges as teachers?

Indeed, the number is few. However, Miss Mary Elizabeth Grabel, one of the U-T Martin physical education instructors, recently succeeded in fulfilling this very attainment. Miss Grabel attended UTMB four years, earning the bachelor of science degree, and immediately transferred to Knoxville, where she received the masters degree. This fall she has returned to Martin as an instructor.

While at UTMB, Miss Grabel achieved a number of noteworthy honors. She was recipient of the Faculty Women's Club award on two occasions and, also, once received the Secondary Education Award. Being secretary of all All Students' Club, editor of The Volette, and a member of the Election Commission were a few of her other attainments. This former Miss UTMB was twice elected a Campus Leader and a member of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Participation in sports has always been one of Miss Grabel's favorite pastimes. Serving as an intramural captain and a member of the tennis team may have been two major reasons why she was named Most Outstanding Physical Education Student.

During college years, the Literary Club, Education Club, Y. F. & H., Chorus, Vanguard Theater, and Wesley Foundation were her choice organizations. A plaque hanging in the Wesley Building commemorates the importance of her services rendered, in part, while she was president of the foundation.

Working in the UTMB cafeteria, serving as director and co-director of the Martin Youth Center, and working as a secretary of the English department were only a few ways Miss Grabel found her way through school.

Aside from these achievements, Miss Grabel continuously made honor roll grades. A faculty member made a concise summation of this student's college life when she said, "Mary Elizabeth had a finger in everything."

Miss Grabel appreciates drama and good music; her hobbies include cooking and sewing, and she particularly likes movies and TV westerns. Born and reared in Ridgely, Tennessee, she has four younger sisters. The eldest of the four, Judy, is a junior here at UTMB.

Miss Grabel's future plans are the same as those of the average American young woman with the exception that she hopes to teach abroad for a short while.

MISS GRABEL

U.T. Dean Gets Acquainted Here

Dr. Truman Pouncey, the new dean of admissions for the University of Tennessee, and a recent visitor on the UTMB campus, is a man of several careers.

Dr. Pouncey, who became admissions dean on Sept. 1, following the retirement of Dr. R. F. Thomason, is a native of Smiley, Texas. He holds B.A., B.J. and M.A. degrees from the University of Texas and the Ph.D. degree from the University of Minnesota.

Prior to launching his career in college admissions, Dean Pouncey worked as a newspaper reporter and photographer. He was on the staff of the San Antonio Light, Fort Worth Star-Telegram and The Dallas Morning News, serving as editor of the latter for five years. Dean Pouncey is the author of two books on news photography, and he has written numerous articles on journalism and on college admissions. He has taught journalism in five leading universities. Dean Pouncey is a certified psychologist in the state of Minnesota. He is married and has two sons.

Dean Pouncey, who partially worked his way through college and graduate school, says he has changed vocations each time because someone offered such a better job he "couldn't say no."

"I don't expect to move any more because this is the perfect job for me," he replied when asked about his future plans. "Just imagine talking with nice people all day."

When asked how he likes The University of Tennessee as compared with other institutions of higher learning, Dean Pouncey said, "I love it!"

In speaking of his impression of UTMB, he said he was fascinated by our size. The campus, he said, is larger than he had expected, and there is a "broader and bigger spirit" than he has found in most places.

"I am fascinated by Dean Paul Meek," Dean Pouncey said. "He feels something has got to be done for the future in the way of facilities. He sees in terms of 25, 50, 100 years from now. Such a vision as this is not only rare, but extremely stimulating. He makes me proud that I'm part of this university with people like him."

Wylie Indicts World In 'Essay On Morals'

by ALFRED WHITE

"This is a world not of sciences, but of religions. The people in it had rather believe than know, guess than learn." These are the words of Philip Wylie, author of an Essay on Morals.

There are those in this gross, deceiving institution which man calls society, who are aware of its fallacies and scream out their indictments to the world. Philip Wylie screams out his bold and provocative indictment of our modern world in his Essay on Morals. These indictments are many, and for the hypersensitive individual on such subjects as religion, God, evolution, ethics, etc., it will make the applied term provocative seem entirely inadequate.

It is not hard to reason what type individual a book like this will offend because it is a discourse on human nature. Wylie uses as a working point the concept that man is basically an animal and is governed by instinct, and his gods, his morals, and his so-called reason are his efforts to suppress this fact.

Essay on Morals is a book which one cannot wholly agree with and, at the same time, wholly disagree with. It cannot be taken merely for what it is worth. But for those of you who are convinced that what is, is right; you may change your mind. This is your chance to defend yourself, your way of life, and your beliefs.

(Rinehart edition published January, 1961, by Affiliated Publishers, Inc., New York).

Business Ad. Has Highest Increase

Final enrollment figures at U-T Martin reveal a total of 1,230 students registered as compared with 1,123 last fall quarter.

With the exception of the senior class, all classes have increased in number since last fall quarter. The seniors have a total of 84; the juniors have increased from 106 to 127; the sophomores have increased from 383 to 423, and the freshmen class enrollment has jumped from 528 last fall quarter to this quarter's 580. In the fall quarter of 1960-61 there was a total of 22 special and part-time students. At present there are only 19 such students.

There has also been an increase in number in five departments on the campus. The Business Department has the largest percentage increase, with the Education Department not far behind. Department enrollments of the 1960-61 fall quarter, compared to the 1961-62 fall quarter are as follows:

Agriculture	186	193
Business	123	171
Education	300	340
Engineering	249	216
Home Economics	102	111
Liberal Arts	161	199

Meetings On And Off Campus Attract Many

BSU
The week of Oct. 16-20 was Christian Athlete Week at Noonday. Athletes, coaches, and cheerleaders were in charge of each day's devotion. The theme for the week of October 23-27 is "Make Him Lord." Homer Martinez, revival speaker at the First Baptist, will be guest speaker for three days.

Joe Hudson will be on the program of the annual Tennessee Baptist Student Convention being held at First Baptist Church, Chattanooga, October 27-29.

Hudson, a student at the University of Tennessee, Martin Branch, will serve as convener for a seminar "The Active Church Speaks About Social and Moral Problems — The Relevancy of the Christian Message" during the Saturday morning session, according to Charles Roselle, secretary of the Student Department of the Tennessee Baptist Convention in Nashville.

About 700 students from the colleges and universities across the state are expected to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mullins have placed a new stereo radio record player and TV in the center, in memory of their son, John, who was killed in a car accident this past summer along with the past director, Miss Clarice Thomason.

The goal for the Summer Missions Program in which students are sent out as missionaries to other states and countries has been set as $750 for this year. The BSU is seeking to attain this by selling each student one of the U-T stack stools in school colors or black and orange.

Charles Johnson has assumed his duties as director of the Baptist Student Union at U-T Martin.

Mr. Johnson attended Vanderbilt University for a year, and then transferred to Memphis State from which institution he graduated. While there he played football. He obtained seminary training from Southwestern College, Memphis.

Grenadiers' Club
The Grenadiers' Club has elected Captain Robert Brown president. Other officers are Lt. Roy Morrow, vice president; M/S Billy Whittaker, secretary-treasurer. Miss Linda Long is the unit's sponsor. They performed in the Homecoming parade representing the ROTC department. They plan to participate in the Drill team competition with other schools over the State.

Zeta Tau Alpha
The Delta Mu Chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha pledges were honored Saturday, Oct. 14, with a tea in the home of Mrs. David McNulty in Union City. Mrs. McNulty was a member of the Zeta Chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

Church of Christ
The Church of Christ Student Group was honored with a hamburger supper at the Hershel Maxey home, Oct. 10. Group singing and fellowship followed the meal.

A brief worship service was conducted at the Weakley County Nursing Home last Sunday.

Daily devotionals are being conducted at 12:35 in the student center on campus. All college students are urged to attend.

Phi Sigma Kappa
Robert Conley has been installed as the new president of the Tau Tetartion Chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa. Other officers are: Dave Mackie, vice president; Bob Hurt, secretary; Johnny Clark, treasurer; Robert Fitts, sentinel and Harold Fuller, inductor.

Engineer's Club
Charles Rhodes has been elected president of the Engineer's Club for the fall quarter. Other officers are Don Amons, vice president; Nellie Jo Theford, treasurer; David Kebschull, secretary; Greg Coggins, ASA representative; James Floyd, reporter. Lawrence Cardwell has been elected sponsor.

The club meets first and third Mondays in room 112 of the Administration Building.

Y. F. & H.
David Yrout has been elected president of the Young Farmers and Homemakers. Other officers are Bert Headen, vice president; Camille Sammons, secretary-treasurer.

Mary Stover, ASA representative; Betty McCollum, reporter, and Carman Beaver and Randa Moore, recreation leaders.

Freeman Hall

First place in the best decorated car division in the Homecoming parade went to the Chi Omega sorority. The object behind the car is the big fish which of course is the win against Livingston State. The theme was prophetic.

The best decorated float in the Homecoming parade was according to the judges that of Alpha Gamma Rho.

The casket presumably carried the remains of the Livingston State Tiger. Betty Gay Reed obligingly played the part of the weeping widow tigress.

Homecoming Was Called The Best And The Most

Homecoming activities Saturday brought reactions of "the most and the best" from the participants who witnessed the parade, attended the alumni luncheon, saw UTMB beat Livingston State, witnessed the crowning of the Homecoming Queen or attended Barnwarming.

Laraine Fields became the first Homecoming Queen in UTMB's history to be chosen by the student body. Linda Cox and Linda Long were chosen as the queen's maids.

The Homecoming parade was climaxed by Alpha Gamma Rho's winning float, "Burying the Tigers." Second and third places in the float division of the parade were taken by Phi Sigma Kappa and Pi Kappa fraternities, respectively. Chi Omega sorority won the car division with their theme, "Fishin' for a Win." The ROTC band and the Grenadiers added color to the parade as did the various other floats, decorated cars and marching bands.

The alumni luncheon, another first at this year's Homecoming, was held in the Armory immediately after the parade, and those attending were treated to what was termed by many as an exceptionally interesting affair.

Alumni president Bob Parkins welcomed all and introduced the featured speakers, Dean Meek; Jesse Safley, president-elect of The U-T General Alumni Association, Knoxville, and farm adviser and director for the Nashville Banner and Stan McAnally, U-T Alumni field secretary.

Dean Meek extended a welcome on behalf of UTMB and brought greetings from Dr. Andrew Holt, U-T president, and asked for support for UTMB's expanding program.

Mr. Safley spoke of bringing out interest in the U-T General Alumni Association as well as the entire university program. He said, "Progress is there if we want it and we must keep building in order to advance."

Distinguished service awards in the form of plaques were presented to Prof. Earl Knepp and trustee T. Wayne Fisher, and like awards were presented to last year's recipients, Elmer Counce, Paul Meek and John E. McMahan.

The football game with Livingston State was played before an over-flow crowd, which watched the Vols rout the Tigers 33 to 0 and make homecoming an even greater success.

After the game, the alumni met in the Administration Building for a coffee sponsored by the Home Ec Club. Along with the coffee they held their annual business meeting.

Elected as next year's president was Harold Lille. Other officers are Billy Stafford, first vice president; Bob Wyllie, second vice president; Mary Elizabeth Grabel, secretary; Mrs. Henrietta Hill, treasurer, and Harold James the member-at-large.

Dean Meek asked the Association to form a committee to find donors in the amount of $300,000 to help pay for a new Student Union building.

Saturday night a large percentage of the student body and alumni attended the 29th annual Barnwarming sponsored by the Ag Club. Charlie Grooms and Camille Sammons were chosen King and Queen of the Barnwarming and reigned over the festivities of the night. Maurice Carroll received the Alpha Zeta Cup as last year's outstanding freshman student in agriculture.

UTMB Vols Tame Livingston Tigers

The UTMB Vol juggernaut rolled over the Livingston State Tigers in the Homecoming game Saturday afternoon to rack up a score of 33-0.

The Vol eleven went into action late in the second quarter to score a touchdown on a two-yard pass-and-run play from Ted Sines to Bill O'Connor. Minutes later Sines passed to Gene Brodie in the end zone for another T.D. The conversion attempt was no good but the Vols went out in front at halftime by a score of 12-0.

Early in the third quarter Jerry Bethune took the hand-off and scampered five yards for a third Vol touchdown. Bob Zachary kicked for the point-after-touchdown.

With less than a minute to go in the fourth quarter the Vols scored two touchdowns in quick succession. Edmiston took the ball and dashed across from two yards out for the first T.D.

On the next play the Vols recovered the ball on the Tiger 32. Vernon Prather passed to Wilbur Edmiston for a 17 yard pass and run play and the touchdown. With the clock hands pointing to zero Edmiston carried the ball for a successful two-point conversion attempt to end the game by a score of 33-0.

The game was played before about 2,500 fans, many of whom were visiting alumni.

Co-Captain Darrel Smith does what comes naturally to a fullback in Homecoming game against Livingston State. UTMB won handily 33 to 0.

UTMB Vols Lost Tough One To MS

The U-T Martin Vols lost a close, hard-fought battle October 14 to Murray State by a score of 25 to 15.

Early in the first quarter the Thoroughbreds showed OVC strength when they tallied a total of 13 points. Late in the first quarter Wilbur Edmiston, the top Tennessee scorer last week, ran back a kickoff 94 yards for UTMB's only mark in the first half. Bob Zachary kicked the extra point to cut the Murray lead to 13-7 as the quarter ended.

Murray State scored the only touchdown in the second quarter on a 42-yard pass and run play from Quarterback Tony Fiorvanti to Tom Angerio. Murray State at the half was out in front by a score of 19-7.

Second half scoring was accomplished first by the Thoroughbreds on another Fiorvanti pass to Dennis Jackson. Minutes later the Vols scored their last touchdown of the night on a pass from Vernon Prather to Jim Love which covered eight yards. Ted Sines ran over for the extra points.

UTMB drove to the one-yard, four-yard, and 13-yard lines only to be penalized by costly errors. Murray State seemed to capitalize on these mistakes, which determined the outcome of the game.

Halfback Bob Zachary was injured on the last play of the first half near the two-yard line and was carried to a Murray hospital. He was expected to be out of action for a week or more.

From The Sidelines

by RONNIE GILL

The Vols won the approval of 2,500 homecoming fans Saturday by trouncing Livingston State 33 to 0.

Ted Sines, Wilbur Edmiston, Bill O'Connor, Gene Brodie, Vernon Prather, and Jerry Bethune were in on the scoring punches. However, when you look at the statistics thereby hangs a tale. I don't know whether the Tigers were tougher than some of us thought or whether the Vols didn't put out as we are accustomed to seeing them. The ground game wasn't as good as it was against supposedly better teams. The Vols picked up 133 yards to the Tigers 102. Sines and Prather's passing amounted to 81 yards compared to 40 for LSC.

Just the same the Vols seemed to score on every reasonable opportunity. And they accounted for some long punt returns. But with all fairness, I think they will have to play a much better game to beat Delta State this Saturday in Cleveland, Mississippi.

The consensus of opinion of the 500 or more fans who traveled to Murray State thought that the Vols beat themselves on their mistakes. The Vols hit harder than they had all season. Against a line that averaged 20 pounds a man heavier than they were, the Orange and White linemen sent seven Murray players to the sidelines. The Vols drove to the 1-yard, 4-yard, and 13-yard lines failing to score. There was no doubt to anyone watching the game that the officiating was questionable. It was indirectly responsible for the injury to Bob Zachary and directly responsible for the Vols failing to score when they were penalized for clipping on the 4 yard line.

All in all it was somewhat of a moral victory for the UTMB players. They weren't supposed to beat them. Murray coach Don Shelton remarked after the game, "They (UTMB) are capable of playing OVC ball anytime." I agree with that statement wholeheartedly with one reservation. UTMB badly needs a football stadium. It is necessary if we are going to grow, sport-wise or student-wise.

There are only three colleges in West Tennessee that play intercollegiate football. Two of those are located in Memphis. It seems to me that this fact alone requires a football stadium capable of seating the thousands of fans in West Tennessee who would come to UTMB to see college football if they had a place to sit down. Our meager facilities have seats for a bare 1,800. This is in sharp contrast to some of the large high school stadiums scattered across the state.

Vols Inner Line Is Well-Manned

by RONNIE GILL

The U-T Martin Vol line combines experience with determination to be one of the hardest hitting forces in the conference. This fact is attested by UTMB opponents who are the recipients of these blows.

Ralph Rutland, a Little All-American, spearheads the tough driving interior line. Sonny Pitts, a 230 pounder, provides his relief. Pitts lettered last year as a freshman. Tom McNutt has seen limited action this season also.

John Blair, a senior from Nashville, starts at right guard. He has earned two letters at this tough spot. Sonny Gilbert and Jim Nunley have seen considerable action at this position. Gilbert has one letter. Nunley is a transfer.

Jay Kessler mans the center spot with authority. J.D. Wyrosdick has moved from guard to center to give more depth to the position. The necessary depth to the center slot is added by Bob Carrett, a junior, and Dwaine Carithers, a freshman.

At left guard is Butch Dean, Ray Newbill, and Jack Phillips. They have been alternate starters all season. Dean and Newbill are lettermen. Phillips is a junior college transfer.

The left tackle position is well taken care of by Frank McCann, Romeo Duncan, and Bill Poindexter. They average 215 pounds. Freshman Mike Seigler is the understudy at this position.

John Barfield and Billy Dean, both freshmen, are presently working as guards. They show promise of becoming tough linemen, which has come to be expected of the UTMB line.

UTMB Vols Will Go Against Delta

The U-T Martin Vols are preparing to journey to Cleveland, Mississippi, this weekend for a game with Delta State College.

The Vols will be at a disadvantage because Saturday is homecoming day at Delta State. The Statesmen handed UTMB its worst defeat of the campaign last year winning 34 to 8. The series stands at one win for the Vols against two losses.

The unaffiliated Delta team boasts a large number of junior college transfers and upper classmen on their squad. They have lost only one game this season, a 9-6 decision to Florence State. They have beaten highly regarded Southeast Missouri 13 to 6 and Troy State 48 to 0.

The Vols are plagued by injuries. Wally Bielewicz, Phil Onkotz, Roy Wheeler, and Bob Zachary were almost completely out of action for the Livingston game. There are still doubts as to their playing this Saturday.

The Delta State game will be the key to a successful season for the Vols. The record, now midway in the season, is three wins and two losses.
